SHE FLAYS WOMEN.

Preacher Says They Expect Too Much and Inflame Too Much.

Kansas City, April 5.—It is the tendency of American women to live beyond their means and to imitate their neighbors, regardless of expense, according to Rev. Mary Andrews, formerly pastor of the Universalist church here, and well known throughout the west as a leader in the affairs of women, who addressed the Council of Clubs in Kansas City, Kan.

"The tendency among the women of America to receive, accept and demand rather than to give and sacrifice, is growing to an alarming state," she said. "When a crisis of any kind enters into the American woman's life, she is incapable of meeting it, because she is so used to receiving that she has no self confidence left. When she meets a thing done, she expects her husband or servants, her husband pays for, to do it, instead of going out and doing it herself as our grandmothers did."

"A spirit of strife and unrest among women pervades all America. If she sees a thing that other women have, she wants something just like it or better. It makes no difference whether she can afford it or not."

The speaker urged her hearers to be satisfied with their homes and their home life; to study to make the home brighter and more cheerful, for, she said, after all, the home is woman's real sphere.

MUCH HAND SHAKING

Roosevelt's Schedule Does Not Permit Speech Making.

Maysville, Ky., April 5.—Colonel Roosevelt said here that hereafter in his campaign he expected to emphasize the argument which he used in his speech in Louisville yesterday that in his opinion the outcome of the present campaign would be of vital importance in shaping the course of events of the nation in the future.

"I believe that I stated the issue more precisely than I have done before," said Colonel Roosevelt, "when I stated that unless this country is a pretty good place for all of us it will not be a place for any of us. That is the important point I am trying to bring out in this campaign. This, and not the personal fortunes of any one man, is the real issue."

As Colonel Roosevelt's private car was attached to a regular train during the first part of his day's run, the schedule did not permit of any extended stops, and the colonel made no attempt to deliver speeches. At several stations he went out on the platform of his car and shook hands with as many of those in the crowds as could reach him.

Captain "Bill" Daly Dies.

Boston, Mass., April 5.—Captain William Daly, the last male member of the theatrical family of that name, is dead at his home in Revere. Captain "Bill" was one of the four brothers who, with three sisters, were on the stage at the same time, said to have been unequalled by any other family. Captain Daly had been retired from

The Peevish Child Needs a Laxative

It is natural for a child to laugh and play and when it sulks drowsily or cries you may depend on it something physical is the matter. If you see no evidence of a serious ailment you will not be wrong if you quietly give it a dose of mild laxative that evening on putting it to bed.

The remedy most generally recommended for this purpose is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which mothers throughout the country have been giving their children for a quarter of a century. Today thousands of families are using it where hundreds used it then, and there must be good reason for this word of mouth recommendation.

It is admitted the perfect laxative for children, women, old people and all others who need a gentle bowel stimulant and not a violent salt, cathartic pill or doctored water. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will act gently, and when taken the stage for many years. The late Dan Daly was a brother, and the late Mrs. Margaret Daly Vokes was a sister. Another sister is Mrs. Lucy Daly Ward, wife of "Hay" Ward. Captain Daly was 55 years old.

TWO DIE IN DUEL.

Discharged Negro Dies After Shooting Four Men.

Holingson, Kan., April 5.—Two men were killed and three others were injured, one probably fatally, at the Missouri Pacific railroad shops here Wednesday night, when "Bud" Smith, a discharged negro employee, engaged in a revolver battle with shop employees. Mortally wounded, Smith was rescued by officers from a crowd intent upon lynching him.

The dead are Smith and Charles Lovin, a watchman, C. W. Layman, a timekeeper, will die from his wounds. Smith was discharged Wednesday. Thursday night he appeared at the shops and announced he was "going to kill somebody." Watchman Lovin warned him to remain away from the shops. For reply Smith shot and killed Lovin and wounded Layman, who was standing nearby.

Shop employees, attracted by the shots rushed to the aid of their fellows, shooting at the negro, who returned their fire as he retreated. Two bystanders were wounded by stray bullets. Smith himself was shot several times, and fell mortally wounded. Despite his condition, leaders of a crowd that gathered, helped him to his feet, and amid cries of "lynch him," were hurrying him away when officers arrived and, assuring the crowd the negro would be given a speedy trial, took him in charge. The negro died a few moments later.

NEGRO SCHOOL BURNS

Ward Hall Destroyed by Flames Driven by Wind.

Kansas City, April 5.—Ward hall, the largest dormitory of Western university, an industrial school for negroes at Quindaro, Kan., seven miles northwest of here, was destroyed by fire, with a loss of $50,000. For a time it was feared all the university buildings would be lost because of a high wind that prevailed. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue.

When the fire broke out, 100 boys, students at the college who lived in the burned dormitory, were on the campus. Although the flames and smoke gained much headway, the students rushed into the building to save their belongings. Many reached their rooms in time to throw their goods from upstairs windows. All escaped from the building safely.

Western university is the second largest school for negroes in the country. It was founded fifteen years ago by William T. Vernon, who was its president and who later was appointed registrar of the United States treasury. The university is sustained by appropriations from the state of Kansas and by donations from the African Methodist church.

before retiring will bring complete satisfaction in the morning. After a short use of this remedy all forms of outside aid will be dispensed with and nature will again act alone.

All classes of good American people keep it in the home for all the ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels, and among the thousands who have written the doctor that they never be without it are Mrs. Ben McElroy, 423 Indiana Ave., Holton, Kas., and Mrs. B. Phipps, 260 Alden Ave., Kansas City, Kas. A dose of it has saved many a person from a serious illness.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can be sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 406 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

TO FAVOR NO ONE

New York Delegates Will Be Uninstructed, Holland Says.

Republicans Believe Party Situation Today Is Serious.

BUTLER WILL BE CHAIRMAN

Delegates to Rochester Convention Representative Men.

No Petty Politics on Program, Leaders Say.

New York, April 5.—The delegation which will be elected on Tuesday next at the Republican state convention at Rochester which will represent the Republican party of New York at the national convention of next June will be uninstructed by any instructions so far as candidates are concerned. That, at least, is the expectation of the Republican organization of the state. It is quite likely to happen that no reference will be made at the state convention to the presumptive candidacy of President Taft or of Colonel Roosevelt or of La Follette.

The delegation to the Chicago convention will, however, carry to Chicago instructions which are intended to impress upon the Republicans of the United States the view of the party of New York state that at the state convention based upon fundamental principles, and not upon any particular candidate, are matters to which the Republican party should give its serious consideration. The plans of the leaders of the Republican organization are to be carried out at Rochester the country is likely to be greatly impressed by what is done and what is said at the time of the convention. In the first place, the delegates will be elected by a vote of 5,000 to 2,000. No political plums will be gathered by this convention, since there is to be no harvest of that kind. If some of the candidates are followed, the convention could complete its work in a single afternoon. It would list to the address of the temporary chairman, appoint its committees, whose work had been carefully parceled out and allotted, receive preliminary reports, elect delegates and then adjourn.

From all parts of the state, however, there have come some indications that members of the party regard the situation that prevails today as even more serious than that which the country confronted in 1896. Republicans who have not been active in politics, but who are men given to earnest and careful thought, have been saying to their friends that the situation at this time, so far as the issues are concerned, is as critical as was the case at the time of the civil war. The silver issue and the tariff issue, important as these were and are, were nevertheless based upon fiscal policies. Now the feeling is that some of the policies recently advocated are to the very fundamentals of our form of government, and in this view there is to be discovered one of the several issues which are to be presented to the people; for there are many who believe upon these policies as essential if there are to be health, and prosperity and long life for the American republic.

A Representative Body.

The Republican convention at Rochester, in its personnel, reflect widespread intellectual and political activity of the American people, itself regarded as a symptom of health. The delegates to the state convention will, as a whole, be a very representative body of New York citizens. There are of two former governors sitting with the delegates—ex-Governor S. Black and ex-Governor Horace White. The universities of New York state are represented. Dr. Butler of Columbia, President Schurman of Cornell and other educators will take seats with the other delegates; Andrew D. White has been so greatly stirred by the intellectual and political unrest that he although advanced in years, has consented to take part in the convention as a delegate. The lawyers of the state will be in a minority. Business men, bankers, manufacturers and scholars will constitute a majority of this body. It is expected that the chairman of the Republican state committee, William Bond, and his associates will subordinate themselves, whether for motives of policy or not does not matter. It is expected, therefore, that in its personnel this convention will remind some of the veterans of the days of the civil war when great men of affairs and of intellect took part in New York state Republican conventions.

What Will Be Done.

After the convention has been called to order and, in accordance with the state committee has announced its selection of temporary chairman—who is to be Dr. Butler of Columbia university—the chief address from the platform will be delivered. Dr. Butler has been for some time the soul of the movement, and is presumed to have prepared an address in which the thought will be in line with those views recently expressed by him in an address at St. Louis which the United States senate ordered published as a public document.

After Dr. Butler's address a committee on resolutions will be appointed. Each congress district will by itself elect a member representing the district, and after the appointment this committee will retire. Presumably the committee will be in session all of the afternoon and perhaps the evening. It is expected that questions of reform of currency, the tariff, arbitration, and especially the policy suggested by the terms initiative, referendum and recall, as well as recall of judicial decision, will be considered. Discussion in this committee will be very free, and when the committee has formulated its views the utmost care will be taken in expressing them in clear, concise English.

On the second day, the permanent organization having been effected, the committee on resolutions will be asked to make its report. It is the expectation that speeches will be made from the floor of the convention hall by men of ability and of high character based upon the platform or series of resolutions. It should be a most instructive and impressive debate. It will be characterized by intellectual ability and by the high purposes of those who are planning the convention are carried out the gathering is not to be utilized to satisfy any ambition or any personal interest. The single wish in the hearts of the leaders who will attend the convention is that it may be able to formulate the fundamental principles of the Republican party and to impress upon the country its view that the crisis at this time is grave and its conviction that the unrest may be quieted in a healthful manner.

The delegates at large will be elected after the platform has been adopted. these will be Senator Root, ex-Governor Black, who has been persuaded to forego his purpose to retire from active political life because he believed the emergency to be grave; former Speaker Wadsworth, and William Bond, chairman of the Republican state committee. It is the expectation of the leaders that the district delegates will, as a whole, compare favorably in intellect and prestige with the delegates at large.

The Real Instruction. If the convention takes any vote at all involving instructions, that vote will be confined to the resolutions which will be set forth as the platform of the Republicans of New York state. Probably the delegates to the national convention the vital need of embodying in a national platform the principles set forth by the Republicans of New York state. These instructions and no others will be given. The belief prevails among the Republican leaders that the national platform is right then it is certain that the candidate who stands upon it will be the candidate whom the Republicans should nominate.

No Petty Politics.

At the state convention of next Tuesday nothing in the way of smaller political maneuvering is to be permitted. No intimation or discussion involving the candidate whom the Republicans will nominate for governor this year, state and congressional politics are to be postponed by common consent until next fall. It is the hope of leading Republicans of the state that what is said and done at the Rochester convention may serve to concentrate the thought of the Republican party throughout the country upon the fundamental principles of the party and to believe to be the fact—that the present is a time of great national crisis involving fundamental issues.

FIRE DESTROYS FINE STORE.

Loss Is Heavy—Blaze Believed Work of Incendiaries.

Havensville, Kan., April 5.—Fire broke out in the Dennen mercantile store and completely destroyed the entire stock of general merchandise, valued at $15,000 and $20,000. The store building, 75 by 100, was gutted from front to rear. The fire is supposed to have originated from parties pilfering as a sack of gun goods and clothing were later found in the railroad yards, believed to have been dropped by some party endeavoring to get away. The heroic work of the firemen and the splendid waterworks system kept the fire from spreading to the adjoining buildings. The stock was insured for $3,000 or $10,000, the building for only $1,500.

Burbank Sells Out.

Santa Rosa, Cal., April 5.—Luther Burbank, the wizard of horticulture, has sold all his fruit, flower and plant creations, present and future, to Rollo Hough of Oakland and W. Gardner Smith of San Francisco. No statement of the sum that changed hands was made. Hereafter Burbank will have nothing to do with the marketing of his products, but will be free to devote his entire time to experimental work. He wishes to leave commercial life altogether for science.

POLITICAL GOSSIP

Neglect to Endorse Capper Here a Surprise.

Supposed It Would Be Given as Matter of Course.

JACKSON FURNISHES ANOTHER

Committee There Names Delegates on Own Motion.

Insurgents Refuse to Hold Convention or Primary.

The action of the Shawnee county Republican convention in refusing to endorse the candidacy of Arthur Capper of Shawnee county for governor is unusual in the political history of the state. It shows how far the factional fight in the party has gone, and to what bitter lengths, when a local candidate for a high office cannot get local support because he is of the other faction. Mr. Capper's opposition to Taft was undoubtedly responsible.

J. B. "Bun" Adams, a regular, was endorsed for congress in the Eighth district by his home county committee, and Butler county is insurgent. C. S. Huffman, candidate for governor, was endorsed by his Crawford county committee. Ryan was endorsed in his home county of Leavenworth. Walter Payne, a regular, and candidate for treasurer, was endorsed by the progressives of his home town of Lawrence.

But the Shawnee county regulars, in full control of the situation, refused to consider the endorsement of Arthur Capper of Topeka without a fight. And they were in the endorsing business, too. They endorsed President Taft, Senator Curtis and Congressman Anthony. The Anthony and Curtis men were in control of the convention. The much talked of harmony move was forgotten.

On the other hand, the insurgents are not wasting much time and effort in their search for harmony in the G. O. P. Over in Jackson county they had control of the county committee and they took advantage of the state call that allowed them to name the state convention delegates any way they wanted to. The Jackson county committee proceeded to name the state delegates itself without calling either convention or primary. This is the most remarkable proceeding in the selection of state convention delegates in the history of this campaign. It is the hardest blow at the Taft system. The most striking usurpation of power of the people to take a part in affairs. And by insurgents, too.

The action of the Second district congressional committee last year in calling a convention instead of a primary is the only parallel of the Jackson county committee action. And the Second district committee was insurgent, too. It takes an insurgent to really and effectively kill an insurgent principle. With all the talk of the Roosevelt campaign managers from coast to coast for a primary, the Roosevelt committee in Jackson county refused to call either a caucus convention where a few people might take part, or a primary where all the people might take part, but proceeded to name the delegates by committee. The Taft committee men favored a primary. Had this act been done by a Taft committee in behalf of Taft the insurgent papers would have called on the highest heavens to witness the outrage and the governor would have sent several telegrams to Washington. But done by a Roosevelt committee in behalf of Roosevelt it is all right and proper. Verily, it dependeth upon whose ox is gored.

Four of the eight counties of the First congressional district have already named delegates to the state and congressional conventions. Shawnee and Leavenworth named 51 delegates for Taft. Jefferson and Jackson named 20 for Roosevelt. Atchison, Brown, Doniphan and Nemaha are yet to hear from. The big fight will occur in Atchison and the complexion of the First district delegation may hinge on that fight. The four remaining counties have 47 delegates to elect.

ELOPERS RETURN.

Floretta Whaley Is Visiting Her Relatives in New York.

Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., April 5.—Floretta Whaley, who eloped from Hempstead six years ago, when 18 years of age, with the Rev. Jere Knobe Cooke, rector of St. George's Episcopal church, of which August Belmont is senior warden, returned to the home of her grandfather with the statement that she was homesick for old friends and relatives.

Cooke did not accompany her and she stayed but a short while, then returned to New York, where she joined the excommunicated clergyman.

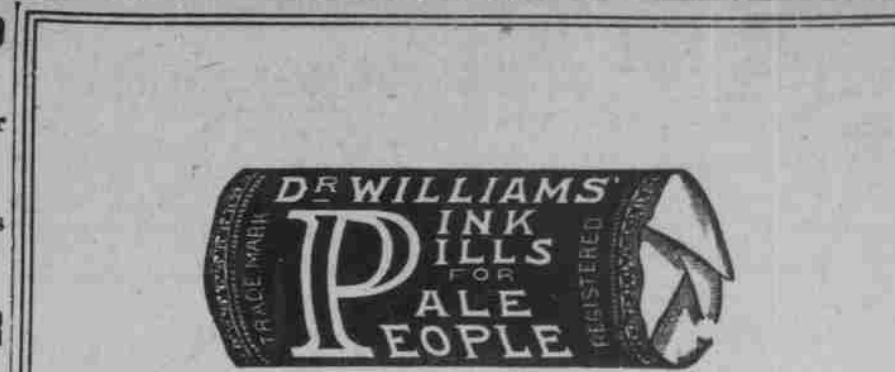

The former minister and the girl who he found her family for his sake came east from San Francisco, where they have been living since the elopement. Scarlet fever and diphtheria were epidemic in San Francisco at the time and inasmuch as a child had been born to them, it was deemed expedient to come east for a short visit in order that Floretta might see her relatives. When Cooke and the girl left Hempstead he deserted his wife, who was a member of a prominent and well-to-do family in Hartford, Conn. The elopement caused a sensation.

Miss Whaley will shortly inherit more than $25,000 from her father's estate and upon the death of her grandmother, Mrs. Kasch Whaley of this place, she will receive about $50,000 more. Cooke has gone into business in San Francisco and prospered.

Boston, April 5.—Governor Eugene N. Foss has withdrawn his name from the presidential primary ballot. In explanation of his action, Governor
